Assemblymember Garcia's Healthcare District Expansion Bill Clears Local Government Committee

BY STAFF REPORTS

The Assembly Committee on Local Government passed AB 2414 has authored by Assemblymember Eduardo Garcia (D-Coachella). This bill will allow the expansion of the existing Desert Healthcare District to include the Eastern Coachella Valley region.

"Currently, there are significant barriers that prevent Eastern Coachella Valley residents' access health care providers and services. This has been well-documented by numerous stakeholders in the region," said Assemblymember Eduardo Garcia. "Along with various local stakeholders I believe that expanding the current healthcare district is the one way to address these barriers," Assemblymember Garcia concluded.

Specifically AB 2414 will:

- Require the Riverside County Board of Supervisors to file a resolution with the

Survey finds decrease in Riverside County homeless population

A survey of homeless people in Riverside County showed a 12 percent decrease countywide compared to a similar count one year ago. The "point in time" count totaled 2,165 adults and children, compared to a 2015 count of 2,470.

The 2016 federally mandated count took place countywide, early in the morning on Jan. 26, and enlisted the help of about 503 community volunteers. People taking surveys included staff and volunteers from more than 130 participating agencies representing the county, cities, law enforcement, social services, faith-based and non-profit sectors and homeless individuals who acted as guides to identify and count other homeless people. Those counted were living on streets, in abandoned buildings, at freeway overpasses and underpasses, in vehicles, encampments and other areas. People in each of the county's homeless shelters also were counted.

The Riverside County Department of Public Social Services (DPSS) Homeless Programs Unit has commissioned the bi-annual homeless counts since 2005, when they were first required by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Since 2011, the county has seen sharp decreases in the number of homeless people counted. Between 2011 and 2016, there has been an overall 65 percent decrease.

In addition to the continued decrease in the number of homeless people counted as compared to previous years, another significant finding is a 25 percent decrease from 2015 among those who were unsheltered and indicated they were chronically homeless as defined by HUD, which means they must have a disability and have been homeless continuously for one year or at least four or more times in the last three years totaling one year. According to HUD, people who are chronically homeless tend to have higher rates of severe mental illness and substance abuse disorders that are exacerbated by physical illness, injury or trauma.

There was also a decrease – although very slight - in the number of unsheltered homeless veterans who were surveyed as compared to 2015, when 102 homeless veterans were counted. That number dropped to just 100 homeless veterans in the 2016 count.

disease, mental health and much more. After collecting this information, HARC analyzes the data and provides it back to the community at no charge in the form of reports, online databases and customized presentations.

Local organizations, such as nonprofits, healthcare providers, and local governments use this information to prioritize needs in our community. This information helps to identify health disparities, design programs and services to address those issues, and obtain funding to provide those programs and services. In the past five years, dozens of local organizations have used HARC's data to obtain over $12.8 million in funds for our Coachella Valley community. This money has helped to provide things like home-delivered meals for hungry seniors, mental health counseling for children, and free HIV testing for all, to name a few.

"We look forward to examining the trends in health over time, especially because this is our fourth iteration of the survey," said HARC's CEO, Dr. Jenna LeComte-Hinely. "This information is critically important to improving the quality of life in our Coachella Valley. The Valley is so unique that County-level data simply does not tell our story. HARC's data are the only way we can accurately identify the unique health needs and disparities that exist in our community."

Everyone who receives a phone call from the HARC/Kent State team is encouraged to take the time to answer the confidential survey. Answering the call will help improve health and quality of life for everyone in the Coachella Valley in the coming years.

HARC, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization providing research and evaluation services related to health and wellness. HARC is funded by grants, donations, and customized research and evaluation services. HARC is located on the University of California, Riverside Palm Desert campus. More information can be obtained by calling HARC at (760) 404-1945.

HARC's community health survey is made possible by funding from the Desert Healthcare District, Eisenhower Medical Center, the California Healthcare Foundation, Desert Regional Medical Center, JFK Memorial Hospital, and the generosity of private donors. TPR

The Obama administration and HUD set a national priority to end homelessness among veterans by the end of 2015, and chronic homelessness by the end of 2016. A national campaign and infusion of funding and resources such as consulting to counties and cities, has helped reduce the number of homeless veterans in the United States by 24 percent between 2013 and 2015.

In Riverside County, 323 homeless veterans were permanently housed in 2015. DPSS Director Susan von Zabern noted that the number of homeless veterans counted this year in eight cities was lower than last year. Those cities are Banning, Beaumont, Blythe, Coachella, Cathedral City, Palm Springs, Riverside and Temecula.

In the City of Riverside, Mayor Rusty Bailey announced in January that the city successfully housed 89 homeless veterans as part of the Mayor's Challenge to End Veteran Homelessness, an Obama administration program that engages mayors nationwide.

"Although we were able to successfully help 323 homeless veterans, the fact that we still identified more than 100 homeless veterans indicates that we still need to do more to ensure that the support systems are in place and working to assist veterans as they transition back to civilian life," von Zabern said. von Zabern said the continued decrease in the overall homeless population is encouraging and indicates that the county's network of homeless services providers continues to make a significant impact. This network, called the County of Riverside Continuum of Care, is collaboration among local cities, the county, nonprofit organizations, faith-based groups and other community-based organizations that work to help eliminate homelessness.

"We still have work to do but this year's count means we continue to move the needle toward ending homelessness in our county," she said, referring to the reductions since 2011.

Despite decreases countywide among the unsheltered homeless and in a majority of the cities and unincorporated areas, the homeless populations in a few cities increased since last year. They are Blythe, Coachella, Corona, Desert Hot Springs, Lake Elsinore, Menifee, Norco, Palm Desert, Perris, San Jacinto and Wildomar.

A breakout of each city and unincorporated area are attached. The Riverside County 2016 Homeless Count and Survey Report will be released by April 29 and can be accessed on the DPSS website at: <http://dpss.co.riverside.ca.us>. TPR

LONG BALLOT BLUES

By JOEL FOX

With expected November ballot measures falling away because of political pressure, costs and legislative deal-making, the concern of an extremely long ballot has diminished somewhat but a long ballot still could confront voters. The length of the ballot could play a role in determining outcomes of some of the measures, especially appearing at the end of the ballot.

Because of the minimum wage bill signed by the governor, two minimum wage initiatives thought to be headed for the ballot likely will not go forward. Likewise, an expected property tax initiative that was moving ahead on signature gathering with enough resources in the bank to get the qualifying job done was suddenly pulled. A measure pursued to send high-speed rail money to water storage projects was dropped. Others may follow.

However, measures already qualified for the ballot (a referendum on the single use plastic bags and a hospital fees initiative) are likely just the point of a galloping herd of ballot measures voters will face.

For example, its possible voters will see all the following measures on the November ballot: the cost of pharmaceuticals purchased by the state; a cigarette tax; an extension of the Proposition 30 income tax; a legislative transparency measure requiring bills to be in print three days before a vote; marijuana legalization; background checks on gun ammo; approval of revenue bonds over $2 billion; a $9 billion school construction bond; Gov. Brown's criminal justice reform; death penalty measures, pro and con; and hospital executive compensation restrictions.

Does a long ballot matter to those supporting some of these measures? The political class thinks so. Remember when Gov. Brown convinced the legislature to move his school funding initiative, which became Proposition 30, to the top of the heap. The rule in place before the legislature changed it positioned the initiatives as they qualified for the ballot. That would have placed the tax measure somewhere down the list of initiatives by the order in which it qualified.

Concern for proponents whose initiatives end up toward the end of a long list of candidates and ballot measures is "decision fatigue." As defined in an Atlantic Magazine article on ballot positioning, decision fatigue "suggests that as people make several consecutive choices, the quality of their decisions deteriorates" and that it could result in a swing of several percentage points.

According to UC Berkeley's Ned Augenblick and Scott Nicholson, the chief data scientist at Poynt, Inc. cited in the article, "When we get tired of choosing, we are more likely to want to preserve the status quo, which for state and local propositions means voting no." The two studied San Diego voting results, figured the difference on a measure being at the bottom of the list of propositions as opposed to near the top could be about 3-percent swing in votes, enough to make a difference on a number of measures.

Most initiative experts think that position on the ballot does matter to some degree.

Yet, the increased NO vote on later initiatives is not always the case. In fact, when California voters confirmed the initiative, referendum and recall in a 1911 special election they had to wade through 23 ballot measures placed on the ballot by the legislature. They approved 22. The only measure voters rejected was one the self-serving legislature put on to allow public officials to have free or discounted passes on public transportation. That measure was number 19 of 23 on the list but I suspect its placement had little to do with its defeat. TPR

Friends of the Desert Mountains has teamed up with University of California, Riverside (UCR) to present the final 2016 Living Green Lecture & Film Series on Thursday, April 28th at 6 p.m. Eco-experts will take a look at the issues that face our community and discuss solutions to ensure that the needs of people and environment are met in the present and long into the future.

Attendees will be introduced to various methods for improving one's environment, while bettering health and enhancing quality of life. Prior to the film, Assistant Secretary for Salton Sea Policy Bruce Wilcox and Executive Director for the Salton Sea Authority Phil Rosentrater will give an overview of the Salton Sea Crisis. Following the lecture, the film "Breaking Point," by Director/Producer Bill Wisneski will be presented. This film depicts an environmental disaster of epic proportions that is fast approaching, and little is being done to stop it. The receding Salton Sea introduces a toxic mix of fine dust and chemicals to the air, threatening the health of millions. After the film screening, Wisneski will be available to discuss the impending disaster at the Salton Sea and his experience documenting it.

The Living Desert Zoo and Garden's Butterflies: Winged Wonders exhibit and camel rides are taking a hiatus this summer. The two popular attractions are available through Sunday, May 1 and will return this fall 2016.

The Butterflies: Winged Wonders exhibit showcases approximately 300 butterflies from more than 30 unique species. The interactive exhibit illustrates metamorphosis from egg to butterfly. Guests are able get up close and personal with the butterflies and observe such species as the Luna Moth, Giant Swallowtail, Monarch, Zebra Longwing and more in a 2,500 square foot habitat built specially for this exhibit.

The exhibit is open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. through May 1, and admission is $3 for non-members and $2 for members.

While camels are on exhibit at The Living Desert throughout the year, three additional camels joined the pack to give rides as one of the zoo's biggest attractions. These nomadic, legendary animals have a characteristic rocking gait (walk) unlike any other animal.

Camel rides are offered daily to the public from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. through May 1. Participants must be at least three years old to ride. The cost is $5 per person.

Proceeds from entry into the butterfly exhibit and camel rides go to The Living Desert's mission of desert conservation through preservation, education and appreciation. For more information, visit www.LivingDesert.org or contact (760) 346-5694.

CVWD RECOGNIZES OUTSTANDING WATER SAVERS

Coachella Valley Water District’s (CVWD) Board of Directors today honored a local resident and business with conservation awards.

CVWD’s conservation contests are aimed at recognizing and celebrating extraordinary water savers in the community. The contests are divided into two categories to recognize homeowners who have transformed their yards into water-friendly landscapes and commercial properties that have implemented effective water conservation practices.

Both winners also received rebates through CVWD’s turf buyback program.

The most recent winners are listed below:

Most Beautiful Yard winner: Tracey Newton

Tracey Newton of La Quinta is the winner of the Most Beautiful Yard category. She replaced approximately 600 square feet of grass with water-efficient plants and installed a new drip irrigation system. This new landscaping has reduced Newton’s water bills by more than half. She also created a desert-friendly landscape attractive to birds, butterflies, lizards and insects.

Her yard features an official Monarch Waystation sign. Monarch Waystations are areas that have met certain criteria to provide resources necessary for monarch butterflies to produce successive generations and sustain their migration.

Outstanding Commercial Water Saver: First Bank, Palm Desert

First Bank of Palm Desert is the winner of the Outstanding Commercial Water Saver award. The bank recently replaced more than 4,000 square feet of grass with desert-friendly landscaping. This project is estimated to save the bank about 60 gallons of water per square foot of grass removed, which is approximately 250,000 gallons per year.

“These projects are excellent examples of the significant water savings that can be achieved by making changes to outdoor landscaping,” said Heather Engel, CVWD director of communication & conservation. “Thanks to efforts like this, CVWD customers are using on average 25% less water than in 2013. While this doesn’t meet the state’s 32% mandate, it’s an impressive accomplishment for our community.”

For more information about CVWD’s conservation contests, visit www.cvwd.org.

The Coachella Valley Water District is a public agency governed by a five-member board of directors. The district provides domestic and irrigation water, agricultural drainage, wastewater treatment and reclamation services, regional storm water protection, groundwater management and water conservation. It serves approximately 108,000 residential and business customers across 1,000 square miles, located primarily in Riverside County, but also in portions of Imperial and San Diego counties.

CSUSB PALM DESERT CAMPUS DEAN NAMED TO ROTARY CLUB EDUCATION HALL OF FAME

Sharon Brown-Welty, dean of the Cal State San Bernardino Palm Desert Campus was inducted into the Palm Desert Rotary Educational Hall of Fame on March 29.

Brown-Welty, who has been leading the Palm Desert Campus since 2014, was honored along with Joel Kinnamon, president of College of the Desert during The Spirit of the Rotary Hall of Fame Education Luncheon, which raises funds to provide scholarships to high school students who wish to stay in the local community to continue their education; many of whom are first in their family to attend college. Without scholarships, many students would not be able to continue post-high school studies.

“Sharon and Joel were recognized for their tireless efforts in providing excellent post-high school education opportunities in the Coachella Valley,” said Ricardo Loretta, member of the Palm Desert Rotary.

Brown-Welty says, “Obtaining a college education is the key to everything: personal growth and accomplishment, understanding and living up to civic responsibility and leadership, and building the economic vitality of the region through and educated workforce.”

The hall of fame is located in the Indian Wells Center Educational Excellence on the CSUSB Palm Desert Campus.

Located in beautiful Palm Desert, the CSUSB Palm Desert Campus offers bachelor and master’s degrees, a doctorate degree in educational leadership, and teacher credentials and certificates. With more than 1,200 students, it is the only four-year public uni-

BUSINESS AND COMMUNITY LEADERS AND ELECTED OFFICIALS ATTEND CVEP'S NAMING OF WELLS FARGO INNOVATION CENTER AT THE PALM SPRINGS IHUB ACCELERATOR CAMPUS

The Coachella Valley Economic Partnership's recent naming celebration of the Wells Fargo Innovation Center at the Palm Springs iHub Accelerator Campus was attended by a number of business and community leaders and elected officials. The ceremony included remarks by Palm Springs Mayor Rob Moon; CVEP Interim CEO Joe Wallace; Ashley Grosh, vice president of Wells Fargo Environmental Affairs and Innovation Incubator co-lead; and Wells Fargo Area President Evelin Martinez.

Grosh addressed the continuing commitment Wells Fargo has to CVEP and the Palm Springs iHub. "We have hard target environmental goals for our assets and we encourage our customers to go green," Grosh said. "We see CVEP and the Palm Springs iHub contributing to that in a significant way, which is why we open our doors to the companies here who are creating environmentally sustainable businesses."

Palm Springs Mayor Rob Moon has been a longtime iHub supporter, first as chairman of the city's Measure J Commission and now as an elected official. "I recognized that Palm Springs needed to have a technology-based iHub up and running so we could attract clean technology start-ups to the area." The iHub has admitted 41 companies, most of which have relocated from outside the region. They have created more than 100 jobs.

CVEP, which manages the Palm Springs iHub, is a member of the Wells Fargo Innovation Incubator (IN2) program funded by the Wells Fargo Foundation and co-administered by the Energy Department's National Renewable Energy Laboratory.

Through its IN2 and Rural Investment for Sustainable Economies (RISE) programs, Wells Fargo and the Wells Fargo Foundation have awarded CVEP with more than $400,000 in grants to support clean technology innovation and small business development in the Coachella Valley and the High Desert. The naming of the center at the Palm Springs iHub Accelerator Campus reflects the bank's deep commitment to innovation in the region.

"The support provided by Wells Fargo is symbolic of the effectiveness of our programs," says CVEP interim CEO and Chief Innovation Officer Joe Wallace. "Wells Fargo made a visionary decision to partner with the National Renewable Energy Labs to establish a five-year program for accelerating the time it takes for commercial building innovations to reach the market. CVEP was selected among the first group of business incubators to join the IN2 program, along with MIT, UC Berkeley, and Rice University. What we bring to the channel partners is an aspect of practical technical business expertise that perfectly complements the power of the research institutions."

HEATHER JAMES FINE ART IS PLEASED TO PRESENT A SPECIAL EXHIBITION OF BREATHTAKING PAINTINGS BY ABSTRACT EXPRESSIONIST PAUL JENKINS

Heather James Fine Art is pleased to present a special exhibition featuring the paintings of renowned Abstract Expressionist Paul Jenkins (1923-2012), whose translucent, undulating, and highly accessible work has been shown at major galleries and museums around the world. The exhibition is ongoing through May 30, 2016.

Jenkins was a painter without a paint brush. His intuitive approach to painting, first with oil paints and later acrylic, involved pouring paint directly on the canvas, allowing it to drip, bleed, and pool, while manipulating it with an ivory knife. Although he occasionally used a brush to finish a painting, his fluid, luminous, psychedelic landscapes are void of paint strokes. Jenkin's work has often been exhibited in the same venues as Jackson Pollock and Willem de Kooning, artists who shared his instinctual working method.

Included in the exhibition is a Jenkins painting that gained fame after being seen in the James Bond film, "Diamonds are Forever." The untitled painting adorned the walls of the John Lautner-designed Elrod House in Palm Springs where a fight scene from the 1971 Bond movie was filmed. Jenkins received further exposure from Hollywood in 1978 when his paintings had a starring role in Paul Mazursky's, "An Unmarried Woman," with Academy Award winning actor Alan Bates, who portrayed a New York artist. The paintings supposedly done by the Bates character were actually the work of Paul Jenkins.

Throughout the 1960s, Jenkins' work was shown at major galleries and museums worldwide, including those in Tokyo, London, New York, Paris, and Amsterdam. In 1963, he took over de Kooning's light-infused loft in Union Square where he worked until 2000. Regarding his paintings, Jenkins once said, "I have conversations with them, and they tell me what they want to be called." Until his death in New York City in June 2012, Jenkins continued to work in acrylic on canvas, as well as watercolor on paper.

Jenkins' work is found in international museums and collections including The Whit-

NEW STUDY LINKS SUICIDE WITH RATES OF GUN OWNERSHIP AND HOW WEAPONS ARE STORED

UC Riverside sociologist finds that accessibility to guns increases suicides

If guns were less available, fewer people would succeed in killing themselves, even if many would seek alternative ways of trying, concludes Augustine Kposowa, sociology professor at the University of California, Riverside.

In his new study, "Impact of Firearm Availability and Gun Regulation on State Suicide Rates," published in the journal Suicide and Life-Threatening Behavior, Kposowa found that household gun ownership was strongly associated with both suicides by all methods, and by use of firearms. Weapon storage practices also had a significant impact on suicide rates.

"In general, the findings of the study are consistent with the proposition that household gun ownership and keeping guns in the home that are loaded, and especially loaded guns that are unlocked, are significant contributors to the U.S. suicide rates at the state level," explained Kposowa.

According to a 2014 report by the World Health Organization, 800,000 people around the world die of intentional self-harm annually. In the United States, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reported that 40,600 people died by their own hands in 2012, this is a higher rate than any other advanced industrial nation. Guns were the cause of nearly 51 percent of U.S. suicide deaths from 2004 to 2012, never falling below 50 percent in any year (CDC, 2015).

In the study, Kposowa found that states with higher gun ownership rates have higher suicide rates. How the gun is stored appears to be even more consequential than if they are present in the home. If the gun is loaded, it adds to the risk – the increase in firearm suicide mortality nearly triples if a gun in the home is kept loaded (14 percent to 51). If it is loaded and unlocked, the risk of suicide increases again, to 76 percent.

"This finding is consistent with the observation that attempted suicide is most often an impulsive act whose outcome very much depends on immediate access to a lethal weapon. If firearms were less available in the U.S., fewer people would succeed in killing themselves, even if many sought substitute ways of trying," said Kposowa.

STATE HOME PRICES HEADING BACK TO PRE-RECESSION LEVELS

Prices of existing homes are a major economic indicator, closely associated with trends in California's assessed property values. According to the California State Board of Equalization's latest issue of Economic Perspective, in 2015 California median home prices averaged $473,995, which is 85 percent of their 2006 peak value of $560,641 (see figure 1).

The median, or middle, price of existing detached single-family homes is an amount at which 50 percent of homes were sold at higher prices and 50 percent of homes were sold at lower prices. While median home prices are an imperfect measure of the current value of any individual home, they do provide important information regarding the overall health of residential real estate markets.

Los Angeles metro (which includes Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, and Ventura counties) median home prices were at 82 percent of 2006 prices, and Inland Empire prices lagged at 76 percent. Median home prices in the San Francisco Bay Area in 2015 stood at 107 percent of 2006 prices (see figure 2).

San Francisco has the highest median price, well over a million dollars ($1,254,784) and 265 percent of the state median ($473,995). Six of the top 10 counties are in the San Francisco Bay Area. At the other end of the spectrum, median prices in 2015 were $164,085 in Siskiyou County, only 35 percent of the state median.

CABOT'S PUEBLO MUSEUM ANNOUNCES "EVENING AT THE PUEBLO"

Cabot's Pueblo Museum, the only homestead museum in the Coachella Valley, presents "Evening at the Pueblo," taking place on Saturday, May 7, at 5:30 p.m. The annual gala is the museum's major fundraising event of the season and this year it will honor long-time community philanthropist, Harold Matzner.

The evening begins with live entertainment by singer and guitarist Jessie Payo during a cocktail and hors d'oeuvres reception, followed by dinner and a celebratory program with Cabot's Pueblo Museum Board of Directors recognizing Mr. Matzner's ongoing support. "Mr. Matzner has done so much for the region's arts community, and has been a particularly important advocate for the Cabot's Pueblo Museum," stated Irene N. Rodríguez, Cabot's Pueblo Museum executive director. "We are most grateful that he has allowed us this opportunity to acknowledge him for his efforts to better our community, as well as to educate, inspire and entertain through the arts."

Cabot Yerxa – known as a community partner, advocate, educator, and humanitarian – is one of the Coachella Valley's original homesteaders. Throughout his life Cabot championed other peoples, cultures and traditions, believing that with strong community ties people thrive. He built the Pueblo in the 1940s using the three R's long before their time – reuse, reduce, and recycle – in his 35-room, 5,000 square-foot pueblo constructed entirely of found and repurposed materials. Visitors to the museum are transported back in time to experience and be inspired by the men and women who helped establish the incredible Valley we enjoy today.

Tickets for "Evening at the Pueblo" Gala are $175 each. Tables for ten guests are $1,750 and $3,000. Tickets can be purchased by calling (760) 329-8100. Attire is desert chic. The event takes place at Cabot's Pueblo Museum located at 67616 East Desert View Avenue, Desert Hot Springs. Sponsorship packages of $5,000 and $10,000 are available to support the event. For information about Cabot's visit CabotsMuseum.org or call (760) 329-7610.

CALIFORNIA'S GENDER WAGE GAP COSTS THE STATE'S WOMEN MORE THAN $39 BILLION PER YEAR, NEW EQUAL PAY DAY STUDY FINDS

If the Gap Were Closed, California Women Could Afford Food for More Than One Year, Four More Months of Mortgage and Utilities, or More Than Six Additional Months of Rent Annually

On average, California women employed full time, year round are paid just 84 cents for every dollar paid to men – a yearly pay gap of $8,053. That means, in total, women in California lose more than $39 billion every year, which is money that could strengthen the state economy and the financial security of California's women and families, including the nearly 1,751,000 California households headed by women. These are some of the findings of a new analysis conducted by the National Partnership for Women & Families and released for Equal Pay Day tomorrow.

The analysis spans all 50 states, all 435 congressional districts in the country, and the District of Columbia. It can be found at NationalPartnership.org/Gap. The full set of findings for California is available here. These findings include that, for every dollar paid to white, non-Hispanic men in California, African American women, Latinas and Asian women who work full time, year round are paid 63 cents, 43 cents and 72 cents, respectively.

"This analysis is a sobering reminder of the serious harm the wage gap causes women and families all across the country," said Debra L. Ness, president of the National Partnership. "At a time when women's wages are so critical to the economic well-being of families, the country is counting on lawmakers to work together to advance the fair and family friendly workplace policies that would promote equal pay. There is no time to waste."

According to the new analysis, if the gap between women's and men's wages in California were eliminated, each woman who holds a full-time, year-round job in the state could afford to buy food for 1.1 more years, pay for mortgage and utilities for four more months, or pay rent for more than six additional months. Basic necessities like these would be particularly important for the 28 percent of California's woman-headed households currently living below the poverty level.

California is not the only state with a wage gap. In fact, every state and 98 percent of the country's congressional districts have one. The National Partnership's national analysis finds that the 10 states with the largest cents-on-the-dollar wage gaps in the country – from largest to smallest – are Louisiana, Utah, Wyoming, West Virginia, North Dakota, Alabama, Idaho, Oklahoma, Montana and Michigan. A ranking of all 50 states and the District of Columbia can be found here.

Nationally, women who are employed full time, year round are paid, on average, 79 cents for every dollar paid to men. The gap is larger for African American women and Latinas who are paid 60 cents and 55 cents, respectively, for every dollar paid to white, non-Hispanic men. For Asian women in the United States, the gap is smaller but persists. On average, Asian women are paid 84 cents for every dollar paid to white, non-Hispanic men, although some ethnic subgroups fare much worse.

"It is unacceptable that the wage gap has persisted, punishing the country's women and families for decades," Ness continued. "Some state lawmakers have taken steps to address the issue by passing legislation to combat discriminatory pay practices and provide other workplace supports. It is past time for federal lawmakers to do the same. We need Congress to pass the Paycheck Fairness Act, which is a common sense proposal that has languished for much too long."

Currently before Congress, the Paycheck Fairness Act would close loopholes in the Equal Pay Act, help to break patterns of pay discrimination, and establish stronger workplace protections for women. The National Partnership argues that the bill, along with other supportive policies – such as paid sick days, paid family and medical leave, minimum wage increases, fair scheduling and protections for pregnant workers – are what is needed to close the gap and should be top priorities for lawmakers.

The National Partnership's analysis of the wage gap was released in advance of Equal Pay Day on Tuesday – which marks how far into the new year women must work in order to catch up with what men were paid the year before. The analysis uses data from the U.S. Census Bureau. The findings for each state, along with state rankings, are available at NationalPartnership.org/Gap. TPR
