Attorney General Kamala D. Harris Supports Legislation to End Juvenile Confinement

BY STAFF REPORTS

Attorney General Kamala D. Harris today announced her support for Senate Bill 1143, legislation authored by Senator Mark Leno (D-San Francisco) that would significantly limit the practice of isolating juveniles in room confinement.

"Subjecting young people to prolonged periods of isolated confinement is cruel, inhumane and counterproductive to rehabilitation. This unnecessary and punitive practice undermines the goal of helping this vulnerable young population become healthy and productive members of our society. Through this legislation and other reforms, California will lead the nation in providing standards that improve the safety and welfare of both youth and staff at juvenile facilities," said Attorney General Harris. "I applaud Senator Leno for his leadership on this issue. I am proud

The Coachella Valley's health expert HARC, Inc. held its first annual "Coachella Valley Workplace Wellness Awards" at the UCR Palm Desert Center lobby and auditorium. Janet Zappala, Anchor, KMIR evening news and host of "Your Health Matters" was the Master of Ceremonies for the awards luncheon.

The aim of the wellness awards is to highlight the efforts of exemplary workplaces that prioritize employee health and wellness, and to inspire others to start similar initiatives. The luncheon is an opportunity to promote workplace wellness practices, learn more about other wellness programs, and to enjoy a delicious lunch provided by Aspen Mills.

Wellness programs have been increasingly gaining popularity. Workplace wellness programs benefit the overall health of the employee and also benefit the organization by increasing productivity, reducing absenteeism, minimizing the cost of insurance/workers compensation, and enhancing the image of the company, which could ultimately attract new talent and new customers.

With HARC's longstanding commitment to health and quality of life in the Coachella Valley, they intimately understand that the workplace has a central role in people's health and well-being. Since much of one's health is controllable by good lifestyle choices (i.e., regular exercise, proper nutrition, and avoiding tobacco and alcohol), and a large portion of time is spent at work, workplace wellness programs have immense potential to positively influence employee well-being.

to support common-sense, 'smart on crime' legislation that helps those currently and formerly incarcerated overcome obstacles to get their lives back on track, and meet their full potential. "

SB 1143 would restrict the use of juvenile room confinement in facilities throughout the state. SB 1143 would limit the amount of time a minor may be placed in a locked sleeping room or cell without contact from others, aside from attorneys or facility staff. The bill expressly bans punitive, coercive, retaliatory confinement, as well as confinement used purely for convenience. It also expressly states that confinement shall not be used to the extent that the mental and physical health of the minor would be compromised. The bill then sets reasonable baselines for how long a minor may be confined prior to steps being taken to reintegrate them into the general population.

"The extensive support of SB 1143 is a testament to the harmful effects of prolonged confinement and isolation on the troubled youth in our care," said Senator Leno. "This bill will help ensure detained young people receive the rehabilitative opportunities they need to safely reintegrate into the community. I am grateful for Attorney General Harris's commitment to protecting vulnerable children in our state."

Attorney General Harris created the Bureau of Children's Justice in 2015, a first-of-its-kind bureau within the California Department of Justice to enforce children's civil rights in education, foster care, and juvenile justice; hold those who prey on children accountable; and work with policymakers to craft and implement policies that improve outcomes for children.

In this legislative session, Attorney General Harris's Bureau of Children's Justice (BCJ) is also supporting a range of bills that would support foster youth and other at-risk and high-needs children. Along with SB 1143, BCJ supports the following bills related to children and youth:

AB 1067 (Assemblymember Mike Gipson, D-Carson)

Requires the Department of Social Services (DSS) to convene a working group to make recommendations for the Foster Youth Bill of Rights.

AB 1580 (Assemblymembers Mike Gatto, D-Glendale and Jacqui Irwin, D-Thousand Oaks)

Creates a process for the placement or removal of a security freeze for a protected consumer, a particularly helpful tool for vulnerable children such as foster youth who have an increased risk of identity theft.

AB 1840 (Assemblymember Mike Gipson, D-Carson)

Requires that state agencies give preference to homeless youth and formerly incarcerated youth when hiring interns and student assistants.

AB 1843 (Assemblymember Mark Stone, D-Scotts Valley)

Protects young people from being subjected to inquiry during the hiring process about arrests or detentions that did not lead to juvenile adjudications, arrests for which juveniles have completed probation programs, or records that a court has either ordered sealed or have been sealed automatically.

AB 2390 (Assemblymember Cheryl Brown, D-San Bernardino)

Provides a legislative fix to 2010 legislation that inadvertently removed a mechanism for juvenile offenders with good records on supervised probation to obtain honorable discharge status.

AB 2815 (Assemblymember Patrick O'Donnell, D-Long Beach)

Promotes a culture of attendance by giving district attendance supervisors new ways to address the root causes of chronic school absenteeism.

KEEPING TABS ON CALIFORNIA BUSINESS AND POLITICS

DAILY

NO BUDGET CUTS? THERE MAY BE A REASON

BY JOEL FOX

Governor Jerry Brown did not find one spending item to cut when he approved the state budget. This is a rare occurrence. In fact, you have to go way back to 1982 to find a governor who did not veto a single item in the budget. That governor was one Jerry Brown in the last year of his first go-around as chief executive. Could it be he made the decision not to cut from the new budget because the overall budget is projected to be slightly smaller than the most recent state budget?

I'm not talking about the General Fund. A distinction must be made here. If you use the General Fund as a measure of state spending, it has exploded during Brown's most recent governorship.

The General Fund is the heart of the state spending plan and it has grown to the largest in the state's history at $122.6 billion. That's 5.5% greater than last year and 42% greater than when Brown took over as governor in 2011.

But the overall budget is down from the last budget by a small amount (relatively speaking: $820 million) mostly due to reduction in bond funds and special funds. The bond funds dropped from $7.8 billion to $3 billion, special funds dropped by $2.5 billion.

The state budget stands at nearly $171 billion. The total consists of a General Fund of $122.6 billion, special funds of $45 billion, and bond funds of $3 billion.

But as they say on those late night TV commercials: 'But wait, there's more!'

Federal funds add about $92 billion to bring the state expenditure to $262.6 billion. (Federal funds are down as well by about $8 billion.) Here's a little perspective. The European Union, which just saw the United Kingdom wave goodbye last week, has an annual budget of about $170 billion.

There's still some action to come on budget related trailer bills including important measures that have to do with housing. $400 million is set aside for affordable housing but it needs legislative agreement on the governor's plan to streamline development projects. Resistance to the governor's plan has surfaced because removing legal and procedural roadblocks to project approval would make it easier to build. Some local governments and environmental groups are opposed to the state involving itself in local developments. Business generally supports the governor's plan.

In addition, an agreement seems near on taking $2 billion from the Proposition 63 tax for the mentally ill to use for homeless with mental illness. A two-thirds vote is required but Senate President Pro Tem

Kevin de León and Assembly Minority Leader Chad Mayes announced agreement on the fund shift. It makes sense in dealing with the homeless problem as I argued previously.

Looking at the budget, all seems well. But, if I may once again borrow that late night advertising line, 'Wait, there's more' to consider.

The seemingly strong budget only winked at the debt shadow that is lurking over the state. As State Senator John Moorlach put it when the General Fund budget was approved, "we should all be concerned that the budget only pays lip service to the hundreds of billions in debt and unfunded liabilities that California has accrued between 2002 and 2012."

Ultimately, California's economy and fiscal health will depend on state leaders tackling and solving the state's debt and liability issues. TPR

VOTERS PASS FIVE LOCAL BOND MEASURES TO UPGRADE AND IMPROVE CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Voters in five California community college districts approved local bond measures totaling more than $2.7 billion. The funds will be used to renovate community colleges campuses, modernize classrooms and facilities, fund new buildings and improve accessibility for the disabled.

"We are thrilled by the people of California casting their votes in favor of our state's community colleges," said California Community Colleges Interim Chancellor Erik E. Skinner. "It is exciting to see local communities unite around funding for the colleges, which are the economic engines fueling our state's economy."

The dollars raised from these bond measures will dramatically improve campuses across the state and increase educational access and opportunities for tens of thousands of California college students." The local bond measures are:

- State Center Community College District – Measure C – $485,000,000
- Chabot-Las Positas Community College District – Measure A – $950,000,000
- Long Beach Community College District – Measure LB – $850,000,000

- Marin Community College District – Measure B – $265,000,000
- Santa Clarita Community College District – Measure E – $230,000,000

The Long Beach Community College District and Santa Clarita Community College District are located in Southern California; the State Center Community College District is in Central California; and the Chabot-Las Positas Community College District and Marin Community College District are in Northern California.

PARKS BILL BY GARCIA TAKES TWO MAJOR STEPS FORWARD IN SENATE

Assemblymember Eduardo Garcia reports that AB 2444, earned strong support in the Senate Natural Resources Committee and Senate Governance Finance Committee, passing on a vote of 6-2, and 4-1, respectively.

AB 2444 would enact the California Parks, Water, Climate, and Coastal Protection and Outdoor Access For All Act of 2016, which, if approved by the voters, would authorize the

SB 884 (Senator Jim Beall, D-San Jose)

Requires school districts, special education local plan areas, and the California Department of Education to document the mental health and special education services and funding provided to special education students, including data to monitor their effectiveness.

SB 1466 (Senator Holly Mitchell, D-Los Angeles)

Requires screening services under the children's Medi-Cal Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnosis, and Treatment (EPSDT) program to include screening for trauma.

Attorney General Harris has a longstanding commitment to protecting and supporting children, holding accountable those who exploit or harm children, and pursuing innovative legal and policy solutions to combat crime by investing in children from a young age.

In addition to launching the Bureau of Children's Justice in 2015, under Attorney General Harris's leadership, the California Department of Justice was one of just three state agencies accepted by the U.S. Department of Justice to be part of its national Defending Childhood State Policy Initiative. Led by the Office of the Attorney General, the California Defending Childhood State Policy Initiative brings together a cross-sector team of state agency leaders to develop shared priorities to prevent and address children's exposure to violence.

Attorney General Harris served two terms as District Attorney of San Francisco, where she created a child sexual assault unit. She also led the San Francisco City Attorney's Division on Children and Families and specialized in prosecuting child sexual assault cases at the Alameda County District Attorney's Office. TPR

SCORE (MENTORING AMERICA'S SMALL BUSINESS) RECEIVES

"Pacific Western Bank is excited to partner with SCORE and support the excellent work they provide to small businesses in the Coachella Valley. SCORE offers small businesses the tools, and more importantly, the mentorship to create success which, in turn, grows our local economy and further strengthens our unique desert community", notes Erin Klink, HOA Client Service Officer, Cathedral City/Yucca Valley, at Pacific Western Bank.

Stephen Abouaf, SCORE Chapter Chair said, "Pacific Western Bank's generous gift validates and supports our core mission of providing unlimited, free, and confidential mentoring services to new entrepreneurs and existing business owners."

TAX RATE ON GASOLINE REDUCED RIGHT BEFORE JULY 4 WEEKEND

The California State Board of Equalization (BOE) noted that the state excise tax on gasoline dropped by 2.2 cents per gallon on July 1, 2016. This lowered the excise tax rate from 30 cents to 27.8 cents per gallon for the 2016-17 fiscal year, effective through June 30, 2017.

The Board approved the 2.2-cent tax rate reduction at its February 2016 meeting. The Board has been tasked with adjusting the excise tax rate on gasoline since 2010, when two pieces of legislation (AB x8 6 and SB 70, collectively known as the fuel tax swap) took effect. The Board sets the rate annually so that over a three-year period, no more or less revenue is collected under the fuel tax swap than would have been collected under the prior gasoline tax structure. The excise tax on gasoline goes to the State Transportation Fund for the construction and maintenance of public roads and mass transit.

Although Californians will pay less in state excise tax on gasoline, this may not necessarily translate to lower overall prices at the pump. According to the United States Energy Information Administration, factors such as crude oil prices, refining costs, and distribution and marketing costs also affect gasoline prices. Crude oil prices—which are affected by worldwide economic growth, regional economies, supply and demand—are the largest component of United States gasoline prices, as explained in the latest issue of BOE's Economic Perspective.

The latest issue also highlights the strong relationship between U.S. gas prices and California gas prices, and California's gas price is one of the biggest components in setting the excise tax rate annually. U.S. gas prices have declined 37 percent from June 2014 to May 2016, and California's gasoline excise tax rate has decreased every year since fiscal year 2013-14. Gasoline purchases in California also have increased, with the latest data showing that gasoline consumption for the fourth quarter of 2015 was the highest since 2007.

CVWD ISSUES ANNUAL REVIEW AND WATER QUALITY REPORT

Coachella Valley Water District (CVWD) has released its Annual Review and Water Quality Report, highlighting water-related issues from the past fiscal year.

Included in the report is the Consumer Confidence Report for 2016, an annual summary of drinking water quality. CVWD is committed to delivering high-quality drinking water. Water is delivered to customers from wells drilled into the Coachella Valley’s groundwater basin.

Highly trained employees monitor the water systems and collect drinking water samples that are tested at CVWD’s state-certified laboratory.

As an additional public service, the Annual Review also includes valuable information on CVWD conservation programs, groundwater replenishment, domestic and sewer projects including the Chromium-6 Treatment project, and more.

The report is mailed or emailed to customers and distributed at public gathering areas, such as city halls, libraries and senior centers. California water utilities are required to provide annual water quality reports to their customers through printed or electronic means.

CVWD provides customers the opportunity to opt out of receiving a paper copy of the Annual Review and instead view the report online or receive an electronic copy by email. To sign up for this option for future years, visit www.cvwd.org/optout.

The Consumer Confidence Report and the Annual Review also are available on the district’s website at www.cvwd.org/annualreview.

PLAGUE DETECTED IN SQUIRRELS AT TWO CAMPGROUNDS IN SAN JACINTO MOUNTAINS

Ground squirrels from Dark Canyon Campground and Marion Mountain Campground tested antibody-positive this month for plague, according to state and local health officials.

The Riverside County Environmental Health, Vector Control Program was notified about the positive blood tests by the California Department of Public Health. The U.S. Forest Service district rangers and safety officer also have been notified. The tests on squirrels from Dark Canyon Campground and Marion Mountain Campground were conducted on June 8 and June 13, respectively. The antibody-positive test means the squirrels had been exposed to the disease sometime in the past.

Plague is a rare bacterial disease in rodents that can be transmitted through the bite of infected rodent fleas. The disease has been detected in ground squirrels, chipmunks, and other wild rodents throughout many mountain regions in Southern California. The last positive plague samples in the San Jacinto Mountain Range were in 2012 and 2002. All campgrounds are continuously posted to remind campers that plague has been found in the area in the past.

Riverside County Vector Control routinely samples wild rodents in mountain recreational areas during the summer months for the presence of plague antibodies. Follow-up rodent surveillance and an environmental assessment of the two campgrounds will be conducted this week. Risk to the public is currently considered to be low and campgrounds will remain open during follow-up investigations.

Because plague typically is spread by the bite of infected rodent fleas, visitors and campers should take the following precautions:

- Do not set up tents on or near rodent burrows
- Do not feed or pick up any wild animals
- Do not touch or handle any dead animals
- Keep pets on a leash while camping and ensure they have been treated against fleas
- Report any sick or dead rodents to campground staff
- Contact your family medical provider if you experience any illness after camping in mountain areas

For more information, contact our Vector Control Program at 951-766-9454 or www.rivcoeh.org/programs/vector

PROFESSOR TO DEVELOP ONLINE COURSES ON AFRICAN LITERATURE

UC Riverside Professor Anthonia Kalu has received two awards from the UC Office of the President to develop, design and teach two online courses, called “Introduction to African Literature” and “Women in African Literature.”

The Innovative Learning Technology Initiative is a UC system-wide initiative that offers high quality online courses that satisfy degree requirements and help UC students graduate on time. Kalu, who joined the faculty in July, 2015, has a strong record of program and curriculum building and has taught online classes before.

Kalu, who teaches in both the Department of Comparative Literature and Foreign Languages, and the Department of Gender and Sexuality Studies, said she wants African literatures (oral and written) to become part of ongoing research and initiatives in the Digital Humanities.

She said the idea started after a March workshop titled, “Rethinking the Classroom with Digital Strategies: An Interactive Panel Discussion” co-hosted by Computing and Communications and the UCR Library.

She spoke to Sheryl Hathaway, a senior instructional design analyst with UCR Computing & Communications, about the possibility of teaching African literatures online, us-

JEWISH FAMILY SERVICE OF THE DESERT PROVIDING CRITICAL EMERGENCY AND ESSENTIAL SERVICES TO VALLEY SENIORS

Jewish Family Service of the Desert (JFS of the Desert), serving the valley since 1982 as a non-sectarian and non-profit organization, is helping out Valley seniors, as temperatures soar earlier than usual this year. JFS provides help in Emergency Assistance to Seniors in need for a variety of services, including rent, utilities and food.

“JFS’ ongoing financial assistance is part of a continuum of care to prevent senior homelessness and unnecessary hospitalizations. We are now seeing the age of those in need go down to as young as 55 and our funds are being used up more rapidly than in previous summers. When seniors on a fixed income receive massive summer utility bills, they often have to choose between rent, medications and utilities. Often they end up getting behind on their rent or in the ER because they have not been taking their medications,” explains Maureen Forman, Executive Director of JFS of the Desert. “JFS financial assistance to fixed income seniors is a vital safety net to a very vulnerable population. In conjunction with the Jewish Federation of the Desert, that meets the emergency needs of Jewish seniors, JFS case managers are able to screen and provide services to seniors throughout the valley regardless of religion, ethnicity or gender identity.

If you know a senior in need and especially if you can donate to the JFS Emergency Assistance Fund to keep this important work going, please contact JFS at (760) 325-4088.

JFS receives an increase in requests for emergency assistance during the Valley’s long hot summer. JFS always verifies income and need paying vendors directly to ensure every dollar is spent where it is most needed.

COMIC CON COMES TO PALM SPRINGS

COMIC CON PALM SPRINGS brings the very first comic con to the desert. The inaugural event kicks off Thursday night, August 25th with a private VIP party and begins officially on Friday with events through the close of Sunday evening.

“We’ve spent years working on this event to create the very best comic con experience we can for fans,” says Christopher Spellman, founder and executive producer of Comic Con Palm Springs. “Not only working with talent and exhibitors, but also being passionate fans ourselves, we really wanted to create an event to remember.”

The weekend-long event will host signature events at several locations throughout the city including a private dinner and party with Stan Lee, live concerts, screenings, parties, the first ever Palm Springs Zombie Walk, and the extensive exhibit hall at the Convention Center.

Bringing together some of the most passionate and talented people from the world of comic books and entertainment, Comic Con Palms Springs promises to be an event that elevates Palm Springs, and brings even more attention and tourism during a typically slower summer month.

The team is also already looking ahead to future years. “Each year we want to make Comic Con Palm Springs something really amazing. We will be considered equal to San Diego or New York Comic Con. We have the talent committed, and everyone loves coming to Palm Springs, it’s the perfect match,” says Spellman. Additional event details, ticket packages and special guests appearances to be announced soon.

FRAMING OF PHASE 2 NOW UNDER WAY AT SIGNATURE AT PGA WEST®

California West is pleased to announce that framing of Phase 2 has begun at Signature at PGA WEST, the final jewel of one of the world’s most celebrated golf communities. Consisting of 230 luxury residences in three interconnected neighborhoods when completed, Signature is the last new home community planned at legendary PGA WEST.

The Haciendas (starting in the $500,000s), gracious one- and two-story detached homes ranging from 1,941 to 2,429 square feet, several with mountain views and room for a pool.

The Estates (starting in the $700,000s), luxurious one- and two-story detached homes ranging from 2,528 to 3,479 square feet, several with views of the golf course and room for a pool.

Signature is currently offering $50,000 in builder incentives for select home sites, which can be used towards flooring, landscaping/pool or design center options. ing the Rienner Anthology of African Literature, edited by Kalu in 2007.

“From the beginning, Dr. Hathaway was excited about the idea of having African literature online and she put together a team to look at possibilities,” Kalu said. The team included computer specialists and copyright experts from the UCR Libraries. The project is funded for a three-year period, and each course has been funded for $110,000.

The courses will involve not only lectures, but also video interviews conducted by Professor Kalu with African authors and storytellers. They are expected to be ready for enrollment in Fall, 2017.

“We are proud of Professor Kalu’s pioneering achievement, and we wish her all success in implementing these exciting courses,” said Tom Scanlon, chair of the Department of Comparative Literature.

CAL STATE SAN BERNARDINO, PALM DESERT CAMPUS TO CO-HOST SECOND ANNUAL BETTER TOGETHER: CALIFORNIA TEACHERS SUMMIT

Coachella Valley teachers will gather at CSUSB Palm Desert Campus on July 29 for the second annual Better Together: California Teachers Summit, a free statewide day of learning and networking that is open to all California PreK-12 teachers, teacher candidates, school administrators and other educators. One of 38 locations across the state, CSUSB Palm Desert Campus invites Coachella Valley teachers to share ideas, join a teacher network, and learn effective strategies for implementing the new California Standards in their classrooms. Running from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., the Summit will take place in the campus’s Indian Wells Theater at 37-500 Cook St.

“The 2015 inaugural gathering of the Better Together: California Teachers Summit was a complete success, and we’re working to build off that momentum to make the 2016 summit even better,” said Mick Verdi, associate dean of Cal State San Bernardino’s College of Education and coordinator of the program on campus. “The Better Together: California Teachers Summit provides teachers in the Coachella Valley the opportunity to meet and discuss how best the California Standards can be taught to PreK-12 students.”

“It is not often teachers can come and share ideas and strategies with teachers not in their districts or schools,” Verdi said. “This sharing of information will make students in the Coachella Valley better prepared for life in the 21st century.”

The Summit will feature keynote addresses by education leaders, TED-style EdTalks presented by local teachers, and Edcamp discussions on timely topics such as the California Standards in English/Language Arts and Math and the Next Generation Science Standards. Teachers will walk away with access to new resources and concrete tools that are already working in classrooms across the state. In addition to the CSUSB Palm Desert Campus, Summit locations in the surrounding area include:

- Antioch University
- Azusa Pacific University
- Biola University
- Brandman University, Irvine
- Cal Poly San Luis Obispo
- Cal Poly Pomona
- CSU Channel Islands
- CSU Dominguez Hills
- CSU Fullerton
- CSU Fullerton, Irvine Campus
- CSU Long Beach
- CSU Los Angeles
- CSU Northridge
- CSU San Bernardino
- Loyola Marymount University
- Pepperdine University
- University of Redlands (at Lee Pollard High School)

A unique partnership between the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities (AICCU), the California State University (CSU), and New Teacher Center formed to host this free statewide day of learning. Through their strong and distinct networks, the organizers will reach educators at every stage in their development: new and veteran teachers, current teaching students, and alumni.

“As California embraces new ways of teaching and learning, teachers want more opportunities to connect with and learn from their peers,” said Ellen Moir, Founder and CEO of New Teacher Center. “New Teacher Center supports new and veteran teachers. We’re thrilled Summit attendees will join a growing network of teachers teaching teachers.”

During EdCamp sessions teachers will pick topics – ranging from technology in the classroom, to improving literacy in early education, or boosting science, technology, engineering, and math education – and exchange ideas with colleagues throughout their region.

“CSU is pleased to be an organizing partner of Better Together. Led by teachers for teachers, the Summit recognizes the expertise of thousands of outstanding classroom teachers. It enhances the prestige of the profession and contributes to retaining excellent teachers, helping to address teacher shortages,” said Dr. Loren Blanchard, Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic and Student Affairs.

The TED-style EdTalks will feature local teachers sharing strategies and classroom victories in implementing the California Standards.

“In light of California’s teacher shortage, we must do more to celebrate and support teachers,” said Kristen Soares, President of AICCU. “Teaching is a uniquely challenging yet rewarding profession that requires teachers to be lifelong learners. AICCU’s innovative and leading Teacher Education Programs are proud to continue to serve our teachers. The Summit is a unique opportunity for teachers, teaching and teacher education to come together to collaborate and re-energize ahead of the new school year.”

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION PASSES BILL TO PREVENT DRUNK DRIVING

The Assembly Transportation Committee approved SB 1046, a bipartisan measure authored by Senator Jerry Hill, Assemblymember Eduardo Garcia and Assemblymember Kathryn Baker.

“The passing of SB 1046 is a significant milestone towards ensuring and preventing the loss of lives as a result of driving under the influence,” said Assemblymember Garcia. In 2013 Celena Nava, a 25 year old medical professional from the City of Coachella, was killed by a three time DUI offender while she was jogging near her home. This incident is an example of many stories shared by families who testified at today’s hearing.

SB 1046 extends and expands an existing pilot program to require the installation of an ignition interlock device (IID) for a specified period of time as a mandatory condition of receiving a restricted or reinstated driver’s license for all driving under the influence (DUI) offenders statewide.

IID tests the blood alcohol content of a driver and prevents a car from starting if the driver has been drinking. Interlock devices are currently required for DUI offenders in four counties – Alameda, Los Angeles, Sacramento and Tulare. Senate Bill 1046 would expand the pilot program to all 58 counties in California.

In California, more than 50,000 people have died and over 1 million have been injured because of drunk drivers in the past 30 years. In just five years, between 2010 and 2015, ignition interlock devices have prevented more than 1 million attempts to drink and drive in California, according to a recent MADD study.

SB 1046 will now be heard in the Assembly Business and Professions Committee for further consideration. TPR

1960 ALBERT FREY PROPERTY RESTORED TO MID-CENTURY GLAMOUR

After nearly 30 years of being closed to the public, The Monkey Tree Hotel has reopened as a serene and iconic destination for Palm Springs most savvy travelers.

Designed in 1960 by renowned architect, Albert Frey, the small boutique property was located at the time less than a mile from the hustle and bustle Charlie Farrel’s famed Racquet Club. The hotel served as a get-away for celebrities who wanted some time away from the public.

Guests of the era included: Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Eric Clapton, Gilda Radner and Gene Wilder, Bob Hope, Spencer Tracey and Katherine Hepburn, and even a JFK and Marilyn visit (guarded at the private entrance of their suite by the secret service).

The Monkey Tree Hotel operated from 1960 – 1988, reopened as The Legacy from 1986 until 1994, and then was operated as The Terra Cotta Inn until 2015.

In 2015 when the property came on the market, Gary and Kathy Friedle made the move from New York to restore the Palm Springs’ gem. After seeing the great architectural bones of The Monkey Tree hotel they dove in to the restoration of the mid-century modern property. Their first decision was to re-establish the original 1960 name of the hotel and to re-brand, and re-energize the property.

The property offers one-room suites, several with kitchenettes, and some with private patios. The interiors have been restored to honor the 1960’s Palm Springs vibe with bright colors, clean lines and ionic furniture, while also updated for the modern traveler.

As a career architectural designer and manager, Kathy hand selected all of the vintage furniture for each room, while her husband Gary who spent his career on Wall Street, has a passion for cooking, consulted on the commercial kitchen that was installed off the property’s great room.

The grounds were also re-imagined adding fresh landscaping, misters, and a Therapeutic Spa (two whirlpools, cold plunge, sauna.) TPR

book review BY STAFF REPORTS

"FAMOUS NATHAN"

Mom always loved you best.

I can beat you at that. You got more than me, more from Santa and a bigger birthday cake. I was Dad's favorite, I'm better than you, and sibling rivalry can linger long past childhood. It's not pretty and, as you'll see in "Famous Nathan" by Lloyd Handwerker (with Gil Reavill), it can bring down an empire.

Born in 1892 in Austria-occupied Poland, Nathan Handwerker was a go-getter, even as a boy: his family was poor and had many small mouths to feed so he, as the third-oldest son, begged his father to let him leave home to work. Eleven-year-old Handwerker found a series of jobs that paid little but he settled on one in a bakery, reasoning that he would never go hungry there.

Living in Poland at the turn of the last century could be dangerous for a young Jewish man – gangs and military recruiters were on the hunt – so Handwerker began saving to move to America. He left the Netherlands in March, 1912 and upon his arrival in New York a month later, he quickly found a job, then another, and another. Remembering his life back home, he found employment in restaurants and worked his way up, toiling seven days a week while he learned English.

While at his part-time job in Coney

Island, Handwerker noticed a counter location that would make a perfect place to start a business.

It took awhile for Nathan's (later, Nathan's Famous) to be successful; Handwerker was initially charging too much for his hot dogs but once he settled on a nickel apiece, two cents for a drink, "the store" started to take off. Coney Island was the place to be, for New Yorkers escaping the city; Nathan's was open year 'round and became famous for speed and spectacle of service. Handwerker was at the store every day, sometimes for 20 hours a day but he still managed to marry and have three children – the younger two, both sons he hoped would someday take over the family business.

As they say, though, all good things must end. Coney Island changed quite a bit in 1966, thanks to a man named Trump; and Nathan's began to struggle, partly because of "small-is-beautiful versus big-is-better debate" and good old-fashioned sibling rivalry.

As business biographies go, I thought "Famous Nathan" was one of the tastier.

Author Lloyd Handwerker, grandson of Nathan, starts his sweeping story with a Coney Island tradition, then moves in directions that truly couldn't be more opposite. We travel from a competitive eating stage to the sleeping-pallet of an illiterate, dirt-poor immigrant who stumbled into his life's work to avoid starvation, the irony of which is never allowed to be lost on readers. Handwerker's storytelling (with Gil Reavill) is clear, lively, and filled with such twists. I thoroughly enjoyed it.

THE AMERICAN DREAM, AND THE SEARCH FOR THE

From the first page, this is an easy book to like: it's interesting, has a smooth timeline, and sometimes reads like a novel. If you're hungry for that, "Famous Nathan" is a wiener. TPR

Allstate returns to California homeowner market after nine year absence writing new policies

Insurance Commissioner Dave Jones welcomed Allstate Insurance back into the California homeowner insurance market this week, after a nine year absence writing new homeowner policies. Allstate also entered into an agreement with the commissioner to reduce its homeowner insurance rates by an average of 12.6 percent.

“Allstate’s return to California’s homeowner insurance market is good news for consumers,” said Insurance Commissioner Dave Jones. “More competition and choice in the insurance marketplace benefits consumers. Allstate joins the nearly 100 existing companies offering homeowner and rental coverage in California, where consumers have more choices when shopping for the coverage they need.”

In May 2007, Allstate announced they were no longer writing new policies for homeowner insurance in California in an effort to more effectively manage their exposure to catastrophic risk. During that time Allstate agents continued to offer homeowner insurance through brokered carriers and renewed existing business. Allstate is third in market share in the California homeowner market.

“We are excited to begin offering the Allstate homeowner product to new customers in California. This product will complement our existing brokered products in certain areas throughout the state,” said Phil Telgenhoff, Allstate’s field senior vice president in California.

Consumers shopping for homeowner insurance can visit the department’s website for a number of resources to help them price and compare insurance products and estimated premiums.
